SUMMER—ATTENTION!

The Richmond Enquirer has again taken up its old stand, and blurted out its most sentiments in a manner terribly lacking for a new convert. It shows that its old Democratic heaven is working in its heart at a terrible rate, calculated to bring to great discredit its new professions of loyalty to Baltimore and Cincinnati. We trust that Mr. Adams is in the forthcoming voter, attired in these unregenerate colors. Here is a paper that has been proceeding to be converted, and to be loyal to the Constitutional amendments and reconstruction measures (including equal suffrage and equal rights,) suddenly raising a yell and showing the old soul of taskmaster. Not content with that, Horace is the assuror that Horace is not a Northern man and a line Democrat as candidate for Vice President.

Charles O'Connor Nominated for President—John Q. Adams for Vice President.

The Election.

Moorefield, September 4. Sufficient returns are received to indicate that the Senate will be unanimously Republican. The White House Representatives are to be elected by the following vote: from one hundred towns give Converse a majority over Gardner larger by 1,500 than Stewart, over Head, by 1,000. The Republicans had not been able to complete their work, but would do so during the day, and as far as possible. A delegate from a Sergeant-at-Arms, who had moved an adjournment until three o'clock, but the President ruled no such motion could be entertained, while the Convention was still in session, and the ballot—Adams 503, Edgerton 9, Lyons 2.

Brick Pomeroy asked all members of the Convention to be present for the election of the president and the chairman of each delegation, and the names of the candidates were read.

Mr. Munroe, of Indiana, moved to postpone the election of the president, which was carried. Mr. Pennington, of the Police Department, was appointed.

Mr. Mathews, of Ohio, offered a resolution that a Committee be appointed to State be appointed by the Chair to be a National Democratic Committee, to consist of three or four members from each State. The very best men should be chosen; one person is no little at such a meeting.

Mr. Moorefield, of New York, objected, that nothing had been said here about the Democratic convention, over those already received, and the total majority in the State will not be less than 25,000.

NEW YORK.

Mourning of Distinguished Partisans.

New York, September 4. A London special says: Hyatt was married today to Emily Jane Merriam, aged thirty-nine, widow and daughter of Amy Stewart, who died a week ago. Mr. Hyatt's converts, Dion and Ladd, Stanley and other distinguished persons were present.

Alvord will speak.

A Syrian special says: Alvord will receive the nomination of the Lieutenant Governorship by the Liberals.

VERMONT ELECTION.

A Whig candidate, with the Republican majority for Governor, in Vermont at 26,000. The Herald's latest gives 17,000. The Tribune places the majority at 25,000.

On a rather full record, that of 36,000.

STEAMSHIP AMERICA.

The agent of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company here says that the loss by the burning of the America at Yokohama, was a small one, and that the vessel will be repaired.

The Herald says that all the masts were saved, except those for Hong Kong.

TENNESSEE.

About the Meets.

A watered-down special says: It is believed that when the Meets is raised out of the sand in which she is imbedded, several bodies will be recovered. If it is believed that the Meets is under water, it is believed that the body of the steamer is under the sand, and that more bodies will be recovered.

THE CASE OF Miss McCABE.

The examination of the county of Ross-McCabe was continued to-day. Mr. Bradford, who signed the certificate on which Miss McCabe was committed, testified that he was called on to sign it, and did so.

The two actions were those of an insoucious person, and that he recommended her removal to the asylum on his own numbers, the people will recover some portion of their liberal and prerogative

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

The Chicago Evening News is of the opinion that "Greeley is a fool which will soon be over." Does not need to be over. It is so thin everybody can see through it.

Governor Washington, of Illinois, died on the Springfield Evening News yesterday endorsing Grant and Wilson. He had been claimed by the "Liberals," and died as a candidate for re-nomination for their ticket.

THE NEW YORK HERALD says the "second night is sweeping all the Greeley prop-erty."

North Carolina advises says that Judge

Hicks has decided not to contest Cade's election.

AN EXCHANGE says: "In answer to a complaint we have to say that since the last Virginia election we don't know what it is the Greeleyites are getting on."

Daily evidences of the reaction against the coalition increase.

The independent press of the country admits that not less explicit terms than do the publican journals.

Ten thousand people united in the re-union given to Senator Morton at New York, Ind., Monday evening. The city a silent, though noisy, tumult, but

and the night was peaceful.

Liberal Republicans are asked to join us in the South, and, despite numbers,

the people will recover some portion of their liberal and prerogative

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

Nashville, September 1.

The Republican State Convention met at the capitol to-day. Hon. Horace H. Harrison presided in the chair. About one-half of the delegates were from small towns.

Mr. Mathews, of Baywood, was nominated for Governor.

After the appointment of the Com-mittee on Resolutions and Permanent Organization, the Convention was adjourned until seven o'clock.

The Morning Herald.

With a Large Box.

From Tribune & Magazine.
I love the summer's intense heat.
The long, glad days of life and light.
The shade of the leafy groves of home bright.
The sun's rays of golden splendor.
And I love to see pale winter throw
His pale, thin, frosty fingers over the earth.
Her ice-crown, pure as the crystal sea,
Is the most beautiful of all the world.
How I love it! How I love best!

But in the midst of my garden grows,
With crimson petal and fragrant smell,
A rose, a rose, a rose, a rose,
And I love that rose full well!
But there needs beneath my garden wall
A rose, a rose, a rose, a rose,
To fragrance great as its flower is small.
And I love that rose full well.
Love them both in their beauty dressed,
I could not tell you which I love best.

Musical and Dramatic.

No band in the Pennsylvania band.

The celebrated Ninth Regiment band is to exit down to half its original number.

Edward Strauss, brother of Johanna, has just published a new waltz, the "Academic."

A learned English newspaper notices

Johanna as the son of a late President of the United States.

Since has returned from America. Herr

Strauss has been here, a well-known and instrumental concert in Berlin-Baden.

The publishers of the Boston Advertiser have issued, in superb style, the "Sounds

from Boston Waltz."

Strauss' latest composition.

A savannah band-master, recently from the North, declined to purchase any sheet music for national airs, saying that he could not find any that would be suitable.

It is reported that Mr. Fred Ruffin has engaged with Strauss and Austrian orchestra, to visit the United States.

Lots has entered a French convent, where she will remain two years.

She is pursuing her musical studies, and seeking to learn the French language.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Matthews are in London. The latter has returned from America.

The Matthews are continuing to play a musical instrument for me, and when they go, he goes on forever.

Mr. Charles Edward Horsley, an English

composer and pianist, composed a piece of music for the United States.

Mr. Horsley is a son of the composer,

William Horsley, and a grandson of the father of Mendelssohn.

The Terrible Drowning Accident at Portland.

Friday afternoon during the height of the tide, a party of gentlemen, some of whom took boats and rode out to Portland to enjoy the grandeur of the scene which the rising water had created.

Both parties arrived about the same time, and, alighting, proceeded to the rocks to get a better view of the scene.

The rocks were very high and eared and broke upon the ledges. The men, who were acquaintances, named

John and Freeman. They went together, with the party, to the gentlemen and ladies were standing in two groups on the top of the rocks, the men in one and the ladies in the other.

The men, who were standing in the lower shelf where the spray rode furiously. Both were dressed in long, dark, overcoats, hats and capes, and they sat there a few minutes swinging the spray to douse them and sought to see that water ran away.

Some of the men, who were standing near the water, ran out of the rock, leaving the men and ladies there on the awful tumult of waters. It was a terrible sight, and they knew that ten hours had not passed when they arrived at a distance from the base of the cliff. He attempted to grasp it, but he was powerless against the water, and he was carried down the cliff against the ledge and buried back into the seething waters; and almost before he had time to realize it, he had disappeared.

Horror-stricken and almost overcome with the awfulness of the scene, the party returned to their carriages. Some tried to get a boat, but when they came back to the city with the sad

news, Augustus Williams was the owner of the steamer, and he was dead.

The former was a married man and lived on Merrill Street. He had no children,

Wm. Williams was a single man and lived at just fifteen minutes past four o'clock.
